Interest earned through the Interest Program is calculated on a daily basis, ensuring that your net equity is consistently working for you. This daily calculation allows for precise and accurate accumulation of loyalty points based on your account's performance each day. At the end of each month, the total interest accrued over the month is paid out in the form of loyalty points. These points are then added to your loyalty points balance, providing you with additional rewards that can be redeemed for cash credited directly to your trading account.
