Copy trading is a type of online trading where investors can automatically copy the trades made by other experienced traders. The process involves setting up a copy trading account with Windsor Brokers and selecting a trader to copy.

Copy trading allows investors with limited trading experience, time, or knowledge to participate in the financial markets by relying on the expertise of others. They can simply follow and replicate the trading strategies of other more experienced traders, known as Strategy Providers. It is important to note that copy trading can be risky and investors should carefully consider the track record and risk management strategy of the Providers they choose to follow.
